WHY MURALS?

A mural is any piece of artwork painted directly on a wall, ceiling, or other large permanent surface.

Many people like to express their individuality by commissioning an artist to paint a mural in their home. This is not an activity exclusive for owners of large houses. A mural artist is only limited by the fee and therefore the time spent on the painting; dictating the level of detail; a simple mural can be added to the smallest of walls.

Private commissions can be for dining rooms, bathrooms, living rooms or, as is often the case - children's bedrooms. A child's room can be transformed into the 'fantasy world' of a forest or racing track, encouraging imaginative play and an awareness of art.

From the 1980's onwards, illusionary wall painting has been experiencing a renaissance in private homes. A mural commission may be an attempt by some people to re-establish a balance with nature.
